SECRETARY BART PEAK
MAKES GROUP REPORT

Big "Feed" Is Held at City
Y. M. C. A., With President
Ray Valade Presiding

The discussion groups conducted by the University Y. M. C. A., were formally closed Tuesday evening with a banquet held at the Y. M. C. A. on the corner of Church and Mill streets. These groups, which were conducted in the fraternity and rooming houses where students live, met one night a week for eight weeks. The period of discussions was 30 minutes and the topics were taken from "Jesus' Teachings," by Sidney A. Weston.

The banquet, at which Ray Valade, president of the organization, presided, was served by the W. M. C. A. committee of the Woman's Club of the University, with Mrs. Brinkley Barnett, chairman.

The following groups were guests of honor at the banquet: 628 South Limestone, 100 per cent attendance; 324 South Upper street, 100 per cent attendance and Kappa Sigma fraternity, 98.2 per cent attendance.

Banquet Program

The following was the program for the banquet:
Invocation by Dr. H. H. Pitzer; mass singing; Report of Discussion Groups, by Bart N. Peak; Presentation of Winning Groups; Response from A. H. Stephenson; Solo by Robert Rudd; "Why Discussion Groups?" by Pres. Frank L. McVey; Address, by the Rev. W. H. Morgan; "On! On! U. of K." and Benediction, by Dr. H. H. Pitzer.

The following is the report of Bart Peak, the University Y. M. C. A. secretary:
Number of groups organized 25
Number of student enrolled 507
Av. weekly attendance last year 402
Av. weekly attendance this year 403
Total attendance for this year 3,230
Faculty leaders 18
Student leaders 4
Ministers 3

ROMANY TO GIVE
'JUSTICE' IN MARCH

Senior Engineers to Present
Galsworthy's Attack Upon
English Prison System; Rehearsals Show Progress.

"Justice," one of Galsworthy's four best plays, will be produced by the Romany Theater during the early part of March, it is announced by Prof. C. M. Sax, director of the Romany Theater.

The play is a vital and powerful drama, bringing out Galsworthy's idea of "man's inhumanity to man" through the prison system. Its production in England caused several reforms in the prison system there, thus accomplishing the aim that the author had in mind when he wrote "Justice."

The only feminine role in the play is to be taken by Miss Jeannette Lampert. The remainder of the cast has been filled by seniors in the College of Engineering.

Rehearsals have been progressing since the first of the year under the direction of Elsworth Perrin, of New York, whom Mr. Sax called upon to assist him in this production.

Other members of the cast have been announced as follows:

Sigma Delta Chi
Elects New Officers

Dundon and Shropshire Are Chosen to Replace Gregory and Bullock

Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic fraternity for men, held a special meeting in Professor Grehan's room in the basement of the Science building of the University, Monday afternoon, for the purpose of electing officers to replace those who are not in school this semester.

John W. Dundon, Jr., was elected president in place of Kenneth Gregory, who has left school, and James Shropshire was elected vice president in place of John Bullock, who was graduated in January. Neil Plummer and Hunter Moody will continue as secretary and treasurer until the regular election, which will be held at the first regular meeting.

FRANCIS ROBINSON

Lucille Short has been re-elected as regimental sponsor of the R. O. T. C. unit of the University, with rank of colonel. Battalion sponsors will be Sarah Warwick and Frances Robinson, who will have the rank of major. Company sponsors who were elected with rank of captain are Company A, Virginia Whyne; Company B, Elizabeth Robinson; Company C, Julia Marvin; Company E, Mary Armstrong; Company F, Martha Reed; Company G, Ann Rhodes. These sponsors were introduced at the Military ball Tuesday night by officers of the R. O. T. C.

Miss Short, of Middlesboro, is a junior in the College of Education. She is vice president of the junior class, a member of the Chi Omega sorority, a member of SuKy and was recently pledged to Theta Sigma Phi.

Sarah Warwick, of Talledega, Ala., is a junior in the Arts and Sciences College and is secretary of the class. She is a Chi Omega and was one of the winners in the Kentuckian beauty contest.

Frances Robinson, of Elberton, Ga., is a senior in the Arts and Sciences College, and gitorian of the class.

She is a member of the Kappa Delta sorority and is the literary editor of the Kentuckian.

Martha Reed, of Carlisle, is a freshman in the Arts and Sciences College, a pledge of the Alpha Xi Delta sorority, and is a member of the Y. W. C. A. council.

Ann Rhodes, of Lexington, is a freshman in the Arts and Sciences College, a pledge of the Chi Omega sorority, and is a Stroller eligible.

Mary Armstrong, of New Orleans, La., is a freshman in the Arts and Sciences College, and a pledge of the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Julia Marvin, of Georgetown, is a freshman in the Arts and Sciences College, and a pledge of the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

Elizabeth Robinson, of Danville, is a freshman in the Arts and Sciences College.

Virginia Whyne, of Clinton, is a sophomore in the Arts and Sciences College, and is a member of the Delta Zeta sorority.

Mary Lewis Marvin, of Georgetown, was named some time ago as sponsor of the band, and has the rank of captain.

LONG DISPUTE IN CONFERENCE ENDS

Trouble Which Grew Out of
'Blacklisting' of University of
Mississippi Settled Amicably,
Doctor Funkhouser Says.

According to Dr. W. D. Funkhouser, secretary of the Southern Conference, teams belonging to the Southern Conference may again schedule games with Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association schools. Doctor Funkhouser announced that the dispute that raged between the two associations has been settled and the matter of controversy has been dropped.

The controversy started last fall when the University of Mississippi, a Southern Conference school, was "blacklisted" by Mississippi College, a member of the S. I. A. A. When the Southern Conference officials heard of this action on the part of the S. I. A. A. they resented it and in turn "blacklisted" all schools playing in the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association, until the latter apologized to the University of Mississippi.

Yesterday, Doctor Funkhouser received a letter from Dr. J. W. Provine, president of the S. I. A. A., stating that the University of Mississippi had been removed from the "blacklist."

Doctor Funkhouser said that he was very glad that the matter had been cleared up at this time, although he said he was positive that the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association would have had to eventually meet the demands of the resolutions set forth by the Southern Conference. "I want to say officially," added Doctor Funkhouser, "that the matter is now a closed issue, that the ban has been lifted, and that the incident is ended."

Students Grateful
To George, Be He
Saint or Sinner

The majority of college students at the University were grateful to George Washington, Wednesday, not so much because he led his countrymen to freedom but because his birthday is celebrated as a holiday. The George Washington, saint, or George Washington, sinner, controversy, disturbed them very little. Nor did Mayor Bill Thompson of Chicago, with his strident ultimatum of "America for Americans and to hell with England" give them any trouble. Instead, they celebrated jubilantly, this day in the calendar—serenely in the consciousness that the "Father of His Country" could not soon be dislodged from his pedestal of American esteem.

In England, too, college men and women stopped for a moment to pay respect to one whom they regard not as an American but as a right noble Englishman.

Mr. John Rothenstein, a graduate of Oxford and an English citizen, now an instructor in the art department of the University, discloses this English attitude toward the first great American. Like most students of American history, I had the idea that in England, Washington was looked upon as an insignificant rebel who could be sneered at and dismissed contemptuously.

"But no, that is not our attitude at all," Mr. Rothenstein explained. "Washington's birthday in England causes a great deal of notice. You see when the war with the American colonies was fought a great many Englishmen were in sympathy with the colonies. To them the struggle was not one between two separate entities but between two parties of the same country: Whigs and Tories. There were many English Whigs, but it happened that the Tories were in ascendancy at the time of the conflict. In England, George Washington is therefore revered as a great man and a staunch defender of Whig principles."

"There is a difference, however, between the American and English attitude toward Washington," Mr. Rothenstein went on to explain. "Here you look upon the man as a perfect creature, unmarred by human frailties. To an Englishman he is a brave, hearty, cursing, good-natured, hunting squire; fond of amusements and fond of sports."

A notable feature of the exhibition is the work of Mr. Wayne on the frames, which were all carved and decorated by him. The artist was a student in the art department of Tulane University for a time after his work here. An announcement will be made in the near future regarding the date for public exhibition of the collection.

WILL NOT MEET CLASSES

Doctor Funkhouser will not meet his classes today as he is attending a meeting of the executive council of the Southern Conference.

Memorial To War Dead To
Be Erected At the University

(Courtesy of Lexington Leader)

Above is the architect's drawing of the Memorial building to be erected at once on the campus of the University in honor of the World War dead of the state.

The J. T. Jackson Lumber Company was awarded the contract for the building at the low bid of $95,000. The structure complete, with the amphitheater, will cost $107,250.

The auditorium will seat 1,040 persons and the amphitheater 1,100 according to present plans. There will be a main floor and a balcony. The stage, which will seat a 50-piece orchestra, will be flanked on each side with an organ loft for the future installation of a pipe organ. In the balcony a projection room for a motion picture machine will be placed.

A tower which will rise 135 feet above the ground will contain a four-faced clock, above this a space for the future installation of chimes, and above that a space for lights for the purpose of flood lighting.

The lobbies will contain scrolls on which will be inscribed the names of all of Kentucky's World War dead.

The architects are Warner, McCormack and Mitchell, of Cleveland, Ohio, with Robert McMeekin, of Lexington, resident architect.

FORMER STUDENT STROLLERS GIVE
BECOMES PAINTER 'DULCY' IN APRIL

Collection of Work of Hugh Wayne, Student at University in 1923, Will Be Displayed at Art Center.

A strikingly original collection of modern art will soon be on display at the Art Center. The paintings are by Hugh Wayne, a student at the University in 1923. Most of these paintings were made in Florida, New Orleans and western Kentucky. Mr. Wayne, is now located at the Grand Central Art Gallery, but will be in Lexington soon to personally conduct a public exhibition of the paintings at the Art Center, where a reception will be given in his honor.

The collection is made up of landscapes, seascapes and portraits through which the artist shows a strong tendency toward impressionism. The exterior works are rich in perfect coloration and perspective. Although the majority of the paintings are done in oils, some water color representations add much to the versatility of the artist. The landscapes fairly breathe freshness and vigor. One portrait especially demonstrates a marvelous interpretation of nude art.

A notable feature of the exhibition is the work of Mr. Wayne on the frames, which were all carved and decorated by him. The artist was a student in the art department of Tulane University for a time after his work here. An announcement will be made in the near future regarding the date for public exhibition of the collection.

WILL NOT MEET CLASSES

Doctor Funkhouser will not meet his classes today as he is attending a meeting of the executive council of the Southern Conference.

Entire Cast Has Had Dramatic
Experience; Director Yeaman
Pleased With Work on First and Second Acts.

"Dulcy," the play to be presented by the Strollers, is progressing smoothly, this week-end marking the finishing touches of the first act and the beginning of the second act.

Addison Yeaman, director, is very much pleased with the interest shown by members of the cast in rehearsals and hopes to be able to present the play by the first week in April.

A change has been made in the part of Blair Patterson which was taken by Bill Durbeck. Mr. Durbeck was found to be ineligible and was replaced by Tom Riley, a member of the Pi Kappa Alpha fraternity. The part of Mrs. Forbes has also been decided on, Miss Elizabeth Turner, of the Chi Omega sorority, having been chosen.

The cast, as a whole, has had some little experience in dramatics. Addison Yeaman, the director, has shown his ability more than once by his character parts in "Icebound," "The Truth About Blayds," and "Candida." Frank Davidson has had parts in the Romany production of "Torchbearers," and last year's Stroller play, Miss Mary Virginia Haily was under the tutelage of a noted Chicago dramatist for a short while and will be remembered in the Romany productions. Louis McDonald was one of the winners in Amateur Night this year, and has since been cast in a Romany play. Bob Thompson won Amateur Night two years ago, and besides has been in former Stroller plays and Romany productions. Henrietta Blackburn showed her wares as an actress in two previous Stroller plays, while Elizabeth Turner has appeared before the footlights in Stage-crafter productions under the direction of Prof. Edward Saxon. Charles Blaine has shown in rehearsals that he has had experience and promises a real treat to those who see him in action. Henry Maddox, Tom Riley, and John Loving have been in high school productions.

This year will mark the presentation of Stroller plays in visiting cities for the first time in four years. In former years, the Strollers were received with welcome in many towns but the practice of playing on the road was abandoned until this year because of the lack of adequate funds.

It is the plan at present to make a tour of five or six towns, probably during the Easter vacation.

Scabbard and Blade
Pledges Fifteen Men

Pledging exercises for Scabbard and Blade, national honorary military fraternity, were held at the Military Ball given in the University gymnasium Tuesday night. Those honored by the cadet officers were Louis Cox, Jesse Laughlin, K. B. Baker, Elmer Gilb, J. D. Williamson, Van Buren Ropke, William Grant, James Shropshire, Claude Daniels, James Shropshire, Dwight Hamersley, J. W. Bratcher, James Finley, Homer Carrier and Howell Davis.

WILDCATS MEET
SOUTH CAROLINA
IN OPENING GAME

Gamecocks Will Furnish Tough
Opposition; Game Called at
2:30 This Afternoon

PAUL JENKINS' LAST
CAMPAIGN FOR BLUE

Fifteen of Twenty-Two Conference Teams Entered; Maryland Not Represented

By John W. Dundon, Jr.

Kentucky's Wildcat Basketball quintet will open with all its tricks and wiles this afternoon against the South Carolina Gamecocks. This is one of the first games in the Southern Conference basketball tournament, which is being held at Atlanta, Ga. Coach Mauer and his able band of Wildcats, led by Captain Paul Jenkins, former all-Southern guard, left Wednesday night for the scene of the fray. This is the first invasion of Atlanta for two years, since the Blue and White did not rate high enough in the South last year to be invited. This year fifteen of the twenty-two teams comprising the Southern Conference will enter the lists, each vowing to carry off the highest basketball honors to Dixieland. Quite a few teams in the South did not make enough showing to be invited to participate in the festivities. Chief among those absent is Vanderbilt. It will be recalled that Vanderbilt won the championship last season. Tennessee, Virginia Poly, Alabama, Tulane, Maryland, and Sewanee will not take part in the meet. Maryland had a fine aggregation, but owing to some previously scheduled games, found it impossible to be among those present.

Draws Announced

Kentucky made quite a good showing this season. In the Southern Conference, the Wildcats won seven and lost two games, and tied for fourth place. One of the teams which defeated the Wildcats is not taking part in the tourney—Maryland—and the other team to hand our hopes a jolt is in the opposite half of the draw sheet. However, the Wildcats will have plenty of opposition from the very outset. The drawings resulted as follows: Upper bracket first-round opponents—North Carolina vs. Louisiana State University; North Carolina State vs. University of Mississippi; Kentucky vs. South Carolina.

The lower half of the bracket was drawn as follows: Mississippi A. and M. vs. Washington and Lee University; Virginia drew a by; Georgia Tech vs. Florida; Auburn vs. Clemson.

Wildcats vs. South Carolina

Little is known of South Carolina, except that the Gamecocks are an aggressive quintet, and Kentucky will have to be on her toes to win the initial victory. If the Wildcats get to the second round, as they should, they will probably meet Georgia. Georgia Tech defeated Georgia by two points and as will be remembered trimmed the Wildcats by a four-point margin. Thus it will be seen that Kentucky has a hard schedule ahead, and only by the most aggressive and fighting type of basketball can she come out on top.

Coach Mauer has a team composed mostly of sophomores, and it remains to be seen whether they can stand up under the strain of an intense tournament. However, even if the team is beaten, it will gather valuable information and experience, and should be a corker of a quintet next season. Every loyal Kentuckian believes in his team to the last man, and at 2:30 p. m. all those unfortunate enough not to be able to make the trip will be pulling for a victory as well as the contingent which will accompany the Wildcats to Atlanta.

Concert Band Will Give Varied Program

University Musicians Will Make
Second Appearance Sunday
in Gymnasium

The second appearance of the concert band will be in the Men's gymnasium on Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. Professor Sulzer will conduct the band. One of the features of the concert will be a xylophone solo by Ned Lee. The program is as follows:

1. March—French National Deffle
2. Overture, "Poet and Peasant" Turlet
3. Xylophone Solo, "The Doll Dance" Suppe
4. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Lampe
5. Grand Suite "The Dwellers of the Western World" Sousa
- a. "The Red Man"
- b. "The White Man"
- c. "The Black Man"
6. Selection, "The Red Mill" Herbert
7. Descriptive, "Circus Days" Alford
8. Reverent, "Celestial Choir," King
9. March, "Valiant Youth," King

? Just Thoughts ?

It is said that only one-third of the men students at Kentucky are members of fraternities. The intra-mural department seems to be reaching only this third. Cannot this be remedied?

Have you heard anything said about this practice of holding military drills on the front campus? Why can't they drill out on Stoll Field?

THE MEMORIAL BUILDING

Early in 1919 after the signing of the Armistice in the World War there was started in Lexington a movement to raise funds for the construction of a memorial building on the campus of the University to commemorate those Kentucky soldiers who had lost their lives in the war. Similar movements had been launched in several neighboring states and in some the money had been raised and buildings started. Preliminary discussions resulted in the plan to raise $300,000 by popular subscription in Kentucky.

The plan was pushed along several different lines until in 1923, when active work for funds was stopped. About one-half of the money first designated as a goal was pledged. Since some of this money was not collectable at once the plan was delayed for some time. Last fall the executive committee of the Kentucky Memorial Building Fund held a meeting and it was decided at this meeting that a building was to be built. Accordingly President McVey and the Executive Committee of the Board of Trustees of the University were authorized to prepare plans for a memorial building and to proceed with the construction. It was decided that the memorial be in the form of an auditorium on the campus of the University.

The plans were made and the contract for the erection of the building has been let as already has been said in preceding issues of The Kernel.

The Executive Committee of this fund authorized the erection of this building with the firm belief that all the outstanding pledges to this fund be paid, and also all the pledges to the Greater Kentucky Fund be paid in full. The Greater Kentucky Fund now owes to the Memorial Building Fund approximately $35,000 in principal and interest. This along with a goodly number of unpaid pledges to the Memorial Building Fund will be needed for the completion of the building.

Within the next few days there will be a call for a payment in full of all the pledges to the Kentucky Memorial Building Fund. This money is needed immediately. It also will be necessary to make a call for a complete payment of unpaid pledges to the Greater Kentucky Fund in order that the obligation of the Alumni Association to that fund be removed.

The Memorial Building drive was, of course, not purely an Alumni drive, but for popular subscription in Kentucky. However, there were a great many Alumni who pledged money to this fund. It will materially aid the University of Kentucky if these pledges are paid in full at once. However, more important to the Alumni is the payment of the still unpaid pledges to the Greater Kentucky Fund. This is needed as much as payments to the Memorial Building Fund. The Alumni of the University are under a moral obligation to remove this debt. It can be done easily if a prompt and full payment is made on your pledge to the Greater Kentucky Fund.

We wish to state that further subscriptions to either of these funds will be gladly received.

Buffalo Club Begins

Drive to Make Club 100 Per Cent Active Is Started

The officers of the Buffalo Alumni Club of the University of Kentucky already have begun their efforts to live up to their promise to make their club 100 per cent active in the Alumni Association this year. The office is just in receipt of a letter from D. J. Haury, B. M. E., 1927, treasurer of the club, which enclosed dues from several of the members of that club. Last year the members of this club were about 95 per cent active in the Association. This year they began early in their efforts to attain a 100 per cent membership. In his letter to the Alumni Association office Mr. Haury said, "We are going to make our club 100 per cent, or go broke trying." We are firmly convinced that they will succeed in their efforts.

STATE IS MEMBER K. I. A. A. FORMED;

Safety Made for First Time by Kentucky Team; Play Is Not Recognized; History Is Continued.

The first game of the season played with Kentucky University was officially called a tie, 0 to 0, but really resulted in a victory for State College, 2 to 0. For Wallace, of K. U., clearly made a safety and it was only the ignorance of the official in regard to the rules of the game that led him to call it a touch back and hence no score against the side making it. In those days we had to rely for officials very largely on persons who only knew the rules from having read them over in a book, and hence decisions were apt to be pretty "raw."

The other games between State College and other colleges that year resulted as follows:

Nov. 6, at Richmond, Central University 8, State College 6.

Nov. 12, State College 14, Louisville Athletic Club 10.

Nov. 28, at Lexington, Va., Military Institute 34, State College 0.

Dec. 3, at Lexington, Central University 10, State College 6.

The other games in the K. I. A. A. (for the Association was organized before the season was over), resulted as follows:

Nov. 6, Central 12, University of Cincinnati 4.

Nov. 12, Central University 8, Kentucky University 4.

Nov. 19, Kentucky University 6, Central University 4.

It was this latter game that K. U.'s cheer, "Hoo-Gah-Ha! Hoo-Gah-Ha!" seems to have first been tried out. At least it was the first time the streets of Lexington had resounded it.

Before the season had advanced very far, it was evident State College needed a sure-enough coach and one "Jackie" Thompson, of Purdue, was secured for that purpose, and I devoted myself to endeavoring to provide the "sinews of war" in the management of the finances. It was the duty of the manager in those days to dig up the money in some way for suits, and for other expenses, except shoes which the members of the teams supplied individually. If he couldn't make it out of the gate receipts, it was one of the privileges of being manager to foot the deficit.

Professor J. W. Newman, now Commissioner of Agriculture, was the representative of the College in the eligibility that year. Already charges of "ringers" were being made and it must be confessed that State College's skirts were not entirely clear, for in the second C. U. game played in Lexington Thompson was run in on them over protest. There does not seem to have been developed in that day the clearly established principle that a coach should not play with his team. Indeed for a number of years Centre College in arranging games always tried to provide that their coach should play. It was probably over some disagreement in this matter that Centre did not contest with the other colleges in football during the fall of '92.

The State College team of that fall was as indicated in the final game: Carney, '96, left end; Garred, '94, left tackle; Welch, left guard; Carnahan, '96, center; Smith, '93, right guard; Baird (Granny), right tackle; Faulkner, '95, right end; Johnson (Dick), '93, quarter back; Bryan, '93, left back; Hoddy, '93, right back and captain; Thompson, full back.

Preceding the opening game of the Spring Athletic Season, the K. I. A. A. organization was formally perfected and rules adopted and printed. The officers elected were:

President, W. Durant Berry, Centre; vice president, James W. Frew, Centre; secretary and treasurer, J. W. Newman, State College. Provisions were made for holding contests in baseball, field sports and football.

The local newspaper accounts of that time are quite imperfect, especially where State College games were concerned; for at that time and for quite a long period following, the reporters on the papers seem to have been largely K. U. men and gave State College the hot end of every write-up, if our games were noticed at all.

Previous to the season of 1892-93, State College had no enclosed ball park. Where the park now is was the President's pasture, and in any use of this for athletic purposes the President was very solicitous that the use of it as a pasture for his cows should not be interfered with. There was no high fence enclosure. It appeared to the present writer that the first thing to be done was in some way to get this fence built. He succeeded in getting the Executive Committee to stand for the cost of putting a high fence along the Winslow Street side. Then he organized a stock company, offering shares at $5 each in the hopes of getting a number to invest and promising the setting aside of 1 per cent of the gross gate receipts out of which to pay dividends. The students, however, with two exceptions—Harry Brent, and Luke Powell—did not bite.

Finally he succeeded in including members of the faculty, including President Patterson and his brother, to take enough shares to defray the cost of the fence on the other three sides of the grounds and to put up a grand stand costing $500. When the grand stand was well on the road to completion at the place in the field best adapted for it, and two trees in front of it were partially dug up with a view of resetting them in another part of the grounds, an order came from President Patterson not to remove the trees.

Work on them was stopped immediately, but that night they were chopped down and removed, presumably by some of the students who were on the grounds at the time the order to stop work on them was received.

The president was very angry over the work of the midnight marauders and offered a reward for the detection of the culprits. However, it was never disclosed at the time who constituted the tree-cutting party.

The effect of this escapade was apparently to make the president still more suspicious of athletics, and though not openly opposing them from now on for several years many obstacles were placed in the way of those who were endeavoring to put athletics somewhat on the plane they were occupying in other colleges.

The baseball for the spring of '93 was under the management of Dr. S. E. Bennett, the head of the Veterinary Department which had such a transient existence in connection with the State College. D. S. Roberts, '93, now Dr. Roberts, was captain. The games and scores were as follows: S. C. 31, Central University 29. S. C. 26, Georgetown College 13. S. C. 9, Georgetown College 6. S. C. 10, Lexington City team 10. S. C. 5, University of Michigan 9. S. C. 10, Woodland Stars 1.

They Tell Me

Amy Isabelle Breslin, B. S. 1915, is another of the several Alumnae of the University of Kentucky who has a place on our Roll of Honor. She has been an active member of the Association every year since her graduation. She now is manager of the accounting department of the Fidelity Motor Company of 741 South Third Street, Louisville, Ky. Her residence address is 2804 Grand avenue.

James Elliott Byers, B. C. E. 1915, is a civil engineer and is located in Beverly Hills, California, where his address is 306 North Foothill Road. He has been located in California for the last five years, and has been an active member of the Association during this time. He is always among the first to send in his dues each year. He was married in 1919 to Miss Ione C. Beam.

Walter Kenneth Clore, B. S. 1915, is assistant manager of Compania Azucarera Altigracia, Ingenio Oriente, Cuba. He has been located in Cuba for the past five years. He also has a place on our Roll of Honor since he has been active each year since his graduation. He was married in 1923 to Miss Virginia L. Dunham.

Anna Elizabeth Colegrove, A. B. 1915, is teaching Latin in the high school at Bellevue, Ky. Her address is 239 Walnut street, Bellevue. Miss Colegrove has been an active member of the Alumni Association each year for the last eight years. She has been in Bellevue for five years.

Theodore Frederick Eichhorn, B. M. E. 1915, is engineer to the Works Manager of the Westinghouse Air Brake Company, of Wilmerding, Pa. He has been with this company since graduation and now holds a responsible position. His address is 400 Caldwell avenue, Wilmerding. He was married to Miss Anna E. Joyce in 1922.

Thomas Francis Hayes, B. M. E. 1915, is assistant master mechanic in the Pennsylvania Railway Shops at Columbus, Ohio. His address is 1407 Parkway Drive, Columbus. He has been with the Pennsylvania Railway since graduation.

Frank Hopkins Kennedy, B. S. 1915, is secretary and general manager of the Tri-State Motor Company, of 217 Wick street, Youngstown, Ohio. His residence address is 253 Park avenue Youngstown, Ohio. This is the first year that he has been active in the Alumni Association for ten years, but now that we have him on our lists again we intend to keep him an active member.

Albert Johnson Kraemer, B. S. 1915, is a chemist with the Bureau of Mines of the United States Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C. He recently was sent to Washington from San Francisco where he was with the same office. He has been with the Bureau of Mines for the last five years. He has missed only two years as an active member of the Alumni Association since he was graduated from the University of Kentucky.

Norborn Edward Philpot, B. M. E. 1915, is a consulting engineer and is located at 310 South Michigan avenue, Chicago, Ill. He has been an active member of the Alumni Association each year since he was graduated from the University. This gives him a place on the Roll of Honor of the Alumni Association.

ALUMNI MEMBER OF HOUSE WEDS

Thomas W. Hardesty, 1924, Married in Marianna, Arkansas, Last August, Announcement Says.

News of the marriage of Thomas W. Hardesty, Jr., LL. B., 1924, has just reached the Alumni office. According to the announcement Mr. Hardesty was married to Miss Mildred Miller, of Marianna, Ark., on Wednesday, August 3, 1927. The marriage was solemnized at Marianna, Ark.

Mr. Hardesty lives at Fort Thomas, Ky., and is one of the outstanding young attorneys of Kenton County, Kentucky. He has offices at 341 York street, Newport. The young couple live on Highland avenue, Fort Thomas, Ky.

After their marriage they returned to Kentucky and Mr. Hardesty stood for reelection to the Kentucky House of Representatives from his county. He was elected by a good majority and returned to Frankfort this year to fill his second term as representative from Kenton county. He is one of the youngest members of the General Assembly and owing to his record during the session of 1926 he was placed on several important committees, one being on the committee dealing with educational affairs of the state.

During his University career he was one of the most popular men in his class and took part in a number of student activities. He is a member of Sigma Chi social fraternity and also a number of honorary organizations. He was graduated from the College of Law with the class of 1925 and immediately began the practice of law in Newport. The following year he became a candidate for Representative and was nominated and elected. He was, during the session of 1926, the youngest member of the General Assembly, and again this session is one of the youngest members. Despite his youth he is recognized as an able man and has considerable influence among his fellow representatives.

Department of Internal Revenue, and is located in Louisville, Ky., where her address is P. O. Box 675. She has been in the internal revenue service for the last seven years and an active member of the Alumni Association during that time.

Lester Severance O'Bannon, B. M. E., 1915, is a professor in the College of Engineering of the University of Kentucky. His address is 123 State street, Lexington, Ky. He returned to the University as a member of the faculty in 1921 after being in the Army during the World War. He has been on the faculty since and also an active member of the Alumni Association during this time.

John Warlick McDonald, B. S. 1915, is a Captain in the United States Army. He is stationed at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, where his address is in care of the General Service School. He entered the Army in 1917 and has been in the service since. He has been an active member of the Alumni Association every year since graduation with the exception of the years during the World War.

Wayland Rhoads, B. S. 1915, M. S. 1923, is field agent for the Animal Husbandry Department of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. He lives at 1423 South Limestone street, Lexington, Ky. Mr. Rhoads is one of the members of the Executive Committee of the Alumni Association and one of the most active and interested Alumni of the University.

Hershel Scott, B. S. 1915, last year sent us a check for $15 to pay dues until 1932. He has been an active member since 1920. This gives him a place on our Roll of Honor in advance. He is an agriculturist with the L. D. Wallis Seed Company, of Gyadalupe, California.

Edward Albert Blackburn, B. S. 1916, is district sales manager for the Frigidare Company in Houston, Tex. His address is 3108 Bain street. He was married to Miss Catherine Brown Cox, of Houston, in 1919. They have one son, Edward Albert Blackburn, Jr., who is four years old. Mr. Blackburn has been an active member of the Association since 1920.

Samuel Jefferson Caudill, B. M. E. 1916, is a consulting geologist and oil producer and is located in Tulsa, Okla. He has offices at 1014 Atlas Life Building and lives at 1716 West Easton street. He has been an active member of the Alumni Association since he graduated and has a place on our Roll of Honor. He has been located in Tulsa since he left the University.

Ernest Harold Clark, B. M. E. 1916, is branch manager for the J. D. Swartwout Company of 400 Penobscot Building, Detroit, Mich. His residence address is 132 Pingree avenue, Detroit. He has been with this company for five years. With the exception of the years during the World War he has been an active member of the Alumni Association since his graduation.

Cline Warford Owen, B. S. 1916, sent us his check for dues this year for the first time in ten years. He is located in Poplar Bluff, Mo., where he is manufacturing distributor of Coca Cola. His address is Box 235. He was married to Miss Mary Hughes Damrell on December 30, 1920.

Military Ball

The annual military ball sponsored by the military department, was given Tuesday night in the Men's gymnasium and was attended by several hundred guests.
Scabard and Blade, honorary military fraternity, held its annual pledging which was preceded by the grand march. One of the "no-breaks" was for Scabard and Blade men and pledges.
The Kentucky Cardinals of Louisville furnished music for the occasion. The newly elected sponsors were introduced to the guests by their officers. They are Miss Lucille Short, regimental sponsor, Miss Sara Louise Warwick and Miss Frances Robinson, battalion sponsors, and the company sponsors Miss Virginia Wayne, Miss Elizabeth Robinson, Miss Julia Marvin, Miss Mary Armstrong, Miss Martha Reed, and Miss Ann Rodas.
The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Mr. J. J. Richardson and Mr. Harold Fried. Dr. and Mrs. McVey and the deans of the colleges and their wives were chaperones.

Will Attend Convention

Miss Anna B. Peck of the College of Education, will leave Sunday for Boston to represent the Alpha Gamma chapter of Kappa Delta Pi at the biennial convention to be held February 28 and 29.

International Relations Class

The class in International Relations held its regular meeting at Patterson hall Thursday.

Dr. Amry Vandebosch gave an interesting talk on "Internationalism and the Press."

Dr. Miner Returns

Dr. J. B. Miner returned last week from New York where he attended the annual meeting of the American Management Association and National Retail Drygoods Association. While in Pittsburgh he attended a luncheon of the alumni of the Research Bureau of Retail Training, with which he was connected in 1918 as first acting director and secretary.

Informal Recital

The third assembly of the candidates for the B. S. degree in music was held last Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. C. A. Lampert. An informal recital was given by the students after which a social hour was enjoyed.

Woman's Club Meets

The regular meeting of the executive board of the Woman's club of the University was held at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the College of Law.

The next meeting of the club will be held Tuesday afternoon, February 28, in Patterson hall.

Botany Class

The botany class of the Garden Club held its weekly meeting Tuesday morning in White hall. Dr. Frank T. McFarland spoke on "Sprouting Studies and Relations of Environment to Sprouting."

A. H. ASHLEY

"I attended Michigan State College, taking subjects necessary to pass examinations for a commission in the United States Army. At the time, I was a member of the Michigan National Guard. Before my college work was over, we were called on duty in the copper mines of Northern Michigan. Here, I served as first Lieutenant in charge of police work in Keweenaw County.

This duty lasted about a year. Upon my return a very close friend explained to me the exceptional opportunities offered by the Kresge company. While this proposition was entirely out of my line of work I decided to give it a trial.

During the World War I was a Major of Field Artillery in the 3rd Division, and I was offered a promotion to Lieutenant Colonel. If I would remain in Germany to assist in taking over the army property as the troops left for home. This I refused to do as I was anxious to get back to the Kresge Company and find my place in a new world.

A. H. ASHLEY.

NOTE: Since Mr. Ashley wrote the above, he has received another promotion to the 1st St. Paul store.

Football Star Wins Success with Kresge!

AMONG the many college graduates who have won success with the S. S. Kresge Company is A. H. Ashley, former football star and four letter man of M. S. C.

Like other men who have found their life's work with this organization, Ashley started in at the very bottom. He was led, step by step, through the various positions in our stores until he was thoroughly acquainted with every branch of our business. Then he was given a store of his own to manage—a dignified, well-paying position which carries with it a share in the profits earned.

We now have a few opportunities open for college men to do just what Ashley did—start at the bottom and work their way to the top. If you are interested in a future where hard work brings its own reward, write to our personnel department at once. We will gladly arrange a meeting with a graduate of your own college who has already won success with the Kresge organization.

"Now Our Idea Is This—"

CONCERNING THE STUDENT

At Harvard, Wisconsin, Yale Medical School, and Antioch College, the new plan of permitting students to follow their own inclinations as to studying what and when they want to, is being successfully carried out.

Throughout the land, it seems, the student's mind is in rebellion against the enslavement to which it is subjected. What the student desires most now is to read what he wants to, to write when he feels the inspiration, to talk, ah! to talk, and talk whenever and wherever he can find someone with whom to exchange ideas. And so it is that some few colleges have recognized this new attitude of the students and changed from the standard conventionalized system of education, with no recognition of the student as an individual, and adopted in its stead a method that permits the student to find and to know himself for what he is.

One perceives that other colleges will not be long to see the wisdom of this new plan. It is a plan that stands on its own merits and needs no defense. By it, the college may determine, and that easily, who is, and who is not fit for a college education. Under the old system such knowledge is impossible. For under the old system it is possible and it so happens that a student capable of independent thinking fails, whereas one who commits to memory the facts he is told to learn makes "satisfactory" grades.

Nor does the student admit that merely because he is young, he has a right to be reckless, or that he will become resigned to the present system when he has gained a few more years of mellowing experience.

That the student is interested in the method by which he is taught is a cause for hope, not worry. His attitude should be encouraged, not suppressed.

READING

Universal education has substituted reading in our modern life for the speech and the narrative of the ancient civilizations. Newspapers supplant the old orator, magazines and books the poet, who, like Homer, sang for his bread. An entirely new form, advertising, has sprung up, dependent wholly upon the power of the people to read. The cinema is another product of the machine age, and has made a noticeable effect in the drawing power and influence of the spoken drama.

The machine age may be said to be largely responsible for the modern interest in reading. The great mass of people would be greatly handicapped if it were not that the highly developed printing press made production possible at a greater speed.

Reading, however, in its strictest sense, is confined chiefly to literature, which is one of the principal measures of a country's culture. Not until its literature is well established can any nation call itself established, and through its literature one can trace the chief historical movements of that country. Times of peace and plenty, such as the Elizabethan period in English, or the Second National period in American literature, are made evident by a great number of works which are of fundamental interest to all humanity.

It would be useless here to point out any rules which should be observed by the student in his reading; everyone, or practically everyone, knows what he should do, and does what he pleases. Most of the college students prefer something light, humorous, and with a cynical trend. They prefer things modern, thinking that they are showing marked originality, freedom, and independence.

A few, however, still cling to the classics. A few still love the poetry which has thrilled or soothed the hearts of men since it was given to the poet to make truth manifest to man; a few still read the old plays and novels, which are free from the hurried atmosphere of those now written; and a few still find in the old histories or essays food for reflective thought.

AN UNPATRIOTIC OMISSION

We observe that Abraham Lincoln's birthday passed without any undue excitement at the University, and rather idly wonder why. It is not The Kernel's intention to assume a grouchy because no holiday was declared at this institution to honor the birth of this greatest of Kentuckians, but would suggest that the occasion would have been an excellent excuse for one, at least.

Glancing at our calendars from business firms in San Francisco, New York, Atlanta, and Detroit, it is interesting to note that February 12 is nationally agreed upon as a legal holiday for no good reason except that Abraham Lincoln was born on that date. Referring to papers on our exchange list from various colleges in all the country, one finds that this date does not merely call for the closing of the banks.

It is not too much to say, nor far removed from the consensus of opinion, that Lincoln was one of our greatest presidents. It is no less a fact that he was the only president that Kentucky has ever contributed to the country, and The Kernel feels that his birthday should be worthy of as much attention as St. Patrick's Day or May Day.

WAILS OF THE WEEK

In refusing to exchange with The Kernel recently, the editor of a Paris, Ky., paper said that The Kernel is a "charitable graft proposition." In spite of the hard work of the student staff and regardless of the editor's discourtesy, we hope that "charity" is as good to the editor as it has been to The Kernel. Incidentally, it wouldn't harm the editor to have subscribers who spend more than a million dollars in his city nine months of each year.

"Phelan's Phullbacks Phace Phootlight," reads a headline in Purdue Exponent. Ain't that phine?

Someone objects to the term "gold-diggers" for our co-ed. Would "miners" be more dignified or more descriptive of their powers?

Why all this uproar over the turtle's heart beating 100 hours while "unturtled." For a real record, test some college cardiac muscles during the spring weather.

Ohio college boys recently gave a concert in the penitentiary. The convicts have protested against "unnecessary cruelty."

"You're in the army now,
You're not behind the plow;
You'll never get rich,
Etc."

Once more the khaki background for medals has made its appearance on the campus and stiff necks are now in vogue. Coming by the Armory, one can pause and hear, or not pause and hear, those husky voices calling "one-two," and the hard-boiled sergeants telling them what it's all about.

The beautiful blue grass of the campus will shortly be blue, really, when the army gets going. But it won't be the only thing that is blue; viz., the awkward squad. But there is some misconception here, for the blue grass will be worn brown and the awkward squad, like the newspaper, will be black and white and red all over.

Don't be disappointed, girls, if he doesn't see you. There are two reasons for his overlooking you. One is that he probably is overlooking you (if you had ever worn one of those uniforms, you would know what I mean), and the second is that he is on the lookout for someone to slute.

DENIAL

Last night I laid upon renunciatory fires
My exquisite carved idols, and my hands
Trembled like tears
Ah, love, the years
Pursue me still. Through far-off hours and lands
Strange-shining, life with my desolate heart conspires
To keep me from you. Penetrant, but low,
They warn you. Dare you stay, beloved? . . . Ah, go!
—F. D.

OH SHELLEY!

If I could only capture
That wild tempestuous rapture
That golden melody divine
That flows with every line
Of thine;

If thy poignant lyric cry
Could mingle with the sigh
That upwells from my soul
As though the cosmic whole
Were its goal;

If I were only gifted
With a heart, like thine uplifted
For the anguish of the mind,
For the misery of mankind
That I find:

I would bow down before thee
And in silent prayer adore thee
While with frankincense divine
I would worship at that shrine
Of thine.

But my destiny was cast
In a mould that will not last;
And the music, welling slowly
From my heart that beats too lowly,
Is not holy,

Does not possess the gladness
Which relieves the painful sadness
That is born with every sigh
On the winds that upward fly.
Let me die! . . . —Anon.

ANSWER TO DEMAND

I shall build you a house
Gay, charming with colors; within its walls
All things shall be to your delight; my hands
Shall fashion for you artistry.
Without, its garden walks shall know
The flowers you love best . . . You say
That this is well? But wait . . .
When you have entered, dreams
From some black hell shall haunt you. When you go
For refuge to your garden, from that air
Laden with your loved perfumes, you shall die . . .
—F. D.

Music, Stage and Screen

Students may be expected to be interested in the story of "Justices," the Galsworthy drama Romany is to produce early in March.

William Falder, 23, is the junior clerk in the law office of the firm of James and Walter How. He is a very nervous youth, of pale features, weak will and chivalrous disposition. This last quality manifests itself in his attempt to rescue Ruth Honeywell—the woman he loves—from a husband who habitually ill-uses her. Under stressing circumstances he turns a check of nine pounds into a check of 90, in order to take her to a far country where they both would be unknown and might pass as husband and wife.

His forgery is discovered on the day they were to have started, and the case is argued out at length in a court of justice. The counsel for the defense, in an impassioned speech to the jury, urges that the prisoner be treated not as a criminal but as a patient. The jury returns a verdict of "Guilty" and the judge commits Falder to penal servitude for three years. He is visited in prison by the senior clerk, Cokeson, a kindly man, through whom we are enabled to see what prison life is like. Falder is brought to a verge of madness by the treatment he receives, and after two and a half years he is released on a ticket-of-leave, ruined in health and reputation.

The hardship of solitary confinement destroys his nerves, and when he comes out he is prevented from taking the new start his employer has offered him because he is again wanted by the police for forging a character and failing to report himself. He is about to be taken into custody once again, but he throws himself down the stairs and breaks his neck. The play closes with Ruth Honeywell weeping over his dead body.

Conrad Veidt, in "A Man's Past," will be the feature attraction at the Ben Ali Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This motion picture is taken from the European play, "Diploma," by Emerich Foeldes. It raises the question of whether a doctor has the right to put an incurable sufferer out of his misery. In this picture Society sends the man who dares to do this thing to prison. The picture was directed by George Melford. The supporting cast includes Barbara Bedford, Ivan Keith and Corliss Palmer.

Louise Fazenda is the star in "Finger Prints," the picture coming to the Ben Ali Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. Finger prints suggests mystery and Louise Fazenda suggests comedy and that is just what one has. Louise is supported

Looking Over The Magazines

By J. Clark Graves

"Some Interesting Things About Lincoln," by Donald Ogden Stewart in "The New Yorker" for February 11th, is altogether absurd and delightful. By taking a few of the better known anecdotes about Lincoln, twisting them about, and involving such notables as Chauncey Depew into them, Mr. Stewart's interesting things about Lincoln, without being blasphemous, are a pleasant relief from the seriousness of some of the appreciations of the great emancipator published in the magazines and papers. In the same issue of "The New Yorker," I suggest Dorothy Parker's story, "A Terrible Day Tomorrow," an amusing incident related in a "speak easy." "The New Yorker" is a wise, sophisticated journal, much better in its way, it seems to me, than "Vanity Fair," well illustrated by drawings, the smartness of which must astonish New Yorkers themselves.

Never Gets a "Bite" From This Tobacco

Jasper, Tenn.
March 23, 1927
Larus & Bro. Co.
Richmond, Va.
Gentlemen:

I have always wanted to smoke a pipe. After several attempts I gave up "taste" up, for with each trial I got a blistered tongue.

One evening, when looking over a certain outdoor magazine, I read that a certain fisherman could catch more fish when using "Edgeworth," so I decided I would try "his" tobacco—for I am no poor fisherman!

The next day I tried to secure Edgeworth. The local country storekeeper did not have it, so I sent by a friend to the city for my first Edgeworth. Two things have happened: I still smoke Edgeworth, and the local storekeeper always has a supply.

I catch fish and never get "a bite" from Edgeworth!
Yours for keeps,
H. V. Massey

Edgeworth
Extra High Grade
Smoking Tobacco

In this picture by Helene Costella and John T. Murray.

Lon Chaney, for the first time since "Tell It to the Marines," plays in a picture without the use of a make-up. In "The Big City" Chaney plays the role of a New York gang leader. The picture is a vivid mystery tale of New York's night life, with Marceline Day, James Murray, Betty Compston, and others of note, in the supporting cast. Tod Browning, director of other Chaney productions, directs this picture with his usual finesse. The picture will be at the Strand Theater Sunday for a four-day run.

"Thunder," the dog star of Fox films, plays the title role in "Wolf Fangs," the picture coming to the Ben Ali Sunday. The wolf pack, beautiful Arctic nights and excellent photography combine to make this a picture worth seeing.

"Silk Legs" is the picture coming to the Strand Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week. The leading role is taken by Madge Bellamy who proves that silk stockings cover a multitude of shins. Her humorous delineation of the female drummer is one of the best performances Miss Bellamy has given for some time.

KITTENS END NET SEASON

Big Green Frosh Win Five Out of Six Games Played This Season

When Coach Fred Major sounded the call for freshmen basketballers December 1, he was greeted by 96 enthusiastic and determined lads. By a process of sorting out the most promising material and discontinuing those disposed to drop out for one reason or another, the number gradually dwindled to 46. Another elimination process left the squad consisting of about six teams or thirty men.

Those changes took place nearly three months ago, and now the history of another University of Kentucky freshman team has been completed and written in the annals of the institution athletic endeavors.

The system of play employed by the freshmen was that which has been established by the varsity coach, Johnny Mauer, a system entirely new and different from any ever before used at the University of Kentucky. However, the freshmen responded rapidly to the basic fundamentals with the privilege of scrimmaging with the varsity, and the result was wonderful. The main object was to develop the members of the squad to such a fine point of efficiency that they could easily break into the varsity system of play next year without any trouble.

As far as the success of other freshmen teams in past seasons is concerned, this year's team has developed efficiency in the fundamentals and execution of play which has equalled and probably surpassed its predecessors. The material was in many respects of a higher calibre, composed of many star players from leading high schools throughout the state. Five games out of six have been won, which is an exceedingly remarkable showing.

The Kittens triumphed over Kavanaugh High School at Lawrenceburg in the first game of the season with a final score of 25 to 18. Spicer, the Kitten center, was the star of the game, making ten points. Trout, his fellow player, came next with a total of nine points. Other Kittens figuring in this game were Johnson, Hayne, Bronston and Bolander.

In a second game with Kavanaugh in the latter part of the season, the Kittens defeated the lads from Lawrenceburg by the decisive score of 24 to 9. The Kittens had little trouble and scored many crisp shots. The boys in green jerseys who were responsible for the outcome of this game were Formley, McGinnis, Trott, Sparks, Bronston, and Hayne.

The University Kittens put up a good exhibition of basketball and had little trouble defeating the basketballers of the Lexington Chapter Order of DeMolay for Boys, 33 to 16, January 16, in the Men's gymnasium. The Green team led by a safe margin throughout the contest, but did not pile up markers until the last half when they dazzled the DeMolays with the intricate Illinois system. Trott opened the attack with four successive field goals followed by a crisp from McGinnis.

After defeating the Hazard High School quintet without much exertion, the Kittens journeyed to Louisville to play the Crimson five of Louisville DuPont Manual Training School. This game was dropped to the Manual lads in a hasty combat. The Kentucky freshmen were handicapped by lack of reserves, and were never able to get their former display of ability in hand.

In their clash with Lee Institute, the Kittens merely walked over that quintet, smothering them by the score of 53 to 3. No opposition was displayed by the Lee boys, and the Kentucky yearlings were enabled to score at will.

University Champions in Intra-Mural Basketball to Be Decided Next Week

According to Mr. Potter, director of intra-mural athletics, it won't be long now till the end of the basketball tournament which is being held under the direction of the intra-mural department. Games played Thursday and Friday of this week, and on Monday of next week will close the schedules of all three divisions. Then on March 1, the finals in the fraternity divisions will be played and on March 2 the winners will meet the champion quintet in the Independent division for the title of University champion.

Last Monday night some of the best games seen thus far in the meet took place. In Division 1 the Phi Sigma Kappa's were a little too fast for the Sig Chi's and downed them by a large margin in an exciting game, 33-18. The S. A. E.'s continued their triumphant march toward the Division championship by trimming Kappa Alpha by the overwhelming score of 24-8. These were the only two games played Monday night in Division 1.

The closest and the really thrillers of the evening's performance came in the games between Division 2 quintets. In a very astonishing upset the Kappa Sig's displayed real ability on the floor, and succeeded in downing the Sigma Nu five, last season's winners, by a 17-10 score. The Deltas came from behind to tie the score up with the Phi Deltas in the last two minutes of the game, and put over the winning goals, 14-10. Sigma Beta Xi vs. Phi Kappa Tau was a battle of the under-dogs. Neither team had won a game up to that time, as it was, three overtime periods had to be played before any decision could be reached. Sigma Beta Xi finally tossed in the winning basket shot, and managed to hold the Phi Tau's until the final gun, winning, 22-20.

The games scheduled for Friday night are as follows:

6:45 p. m., Phi Delta Theta vs. Phi Kappa Tau; Sigma Chi vs. Kappa Alpha; 7:45 p. m., Sigma Nu vs. Alpha Sigma Phi; 8:45 p. m., Alpha Gamma Epsilon vs. Alpha Tau Omega.

If the Alpha Sigs beat the Sigma Nu quintet, they will win the division hands down. This game promises to be a bang-up affair.

On Monday night the following schedule prevails: 6:45 p. m., Sigma Beta Xi vs. Phi Delta Theta; Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Delta Chi; 7:45 p. m., S. A. E. vs. A. T. O.; Kappa Sigma vs. Delta Tau Delta; 8:45 p. m., Kappa Alpha vs. Alpha Gamma Epsilon. If the S. A. E.'s are returned victors over the A. T. O.'s they will clinch the Division 1 championship.

The standings so far are as follows:

Division I.
	W	L
Sigma Alpha Epsilon	5	0
Delta Chi	4	1
Phi Sigma Kappa	2	2
Alpha Tau Omega	1	2
Sigma Chi	1	3
Kappa Alpha	1	4
Alpha Gamma Epsilon	0	3
Division II.
	W	L
Alpha Sigma Phi	4	0
Kappa Sigma	4	1
Delta Tau Delta	4	1
Sigma Nu	3	2
Sigma Beta Xi	1	4
Phi Delta Theta	0	4
Phi Kappa Tau	0	4

COLLEGE SPORTS

(By Bill Reep)

The Wildcats brought their 1928 basketball season to a close last Saturday night by defeating Centre College 30 to 20. In a game that should have been full of thrills and exciting moments and a team that should have covered themselves with glory it was just the opposite. For some reason or other the Blue and White played very listless ball throughout the entire game and only a few seconds at a time did they play the brand of ball that we know they are capable of playing.

The game, certainly, was not pleasing to those who have such high hopes for the Wildcats making an impressive record during the Conference tournament which starts today, with Kentucky meeting the Gamecocks of South Carolina.

The game with the Colonels was unusually slow at times and exceedingly rough—according to the referee's decisions. In the second half two of Centre's men were forced to leave the game via the personal foul route. One thing that kept the score so low was the fact that Centre played a slow offensive game, time after time bringing the ball down to the floor to the first line of Kentucky's defense, holding it there, or taking it back down the floor and starting over again.

On Wednesday night the Wildcats left for Atlanta to participate in the Southern Conference tournament, the event that the whole student body and town has been awaiting anxiously for the past two months. Finally the time has arrived when the Wildcats will have to display the "stuff" that is in their power to win games. This afternoon at 2:30 Kentucky plays South Carolina in their first tournament game of the year.

In this game and any others that the cats may get to play, they cannot afford to let down for one moment with the idea of coming back strong in the second half. Every team entered in the meet will be out to win and therefore their playing will be of the hardest nature and the competition will be "keen."

'CAT RELAY TEAM OPENS SEASON SATURDAY

The varsity track team will go to Louisville Saturday to participate in the National Indoor Scholastic Relays which will be held at the Jefferson County Armory. There will be two events in which the team will take part, the mile relay and the medley relay.

Trials were held for the places on the team Monday and Tuesday under the direction of Coach Bernie Shively and Manager Ray Bowser. Captain William Gess and Wayman Thomasson turned in the best times of the day and will be the mainstays in the races Saturday night, Gess running the quarter-mile in both events and Thomasson running the quarter-mile in the mile relay and the half-mile in the medley relay. Andy Akin, a veteran on the team, and Rhodemeyer, who ran on the freshman team last year, will comprise the rest of the mile relay team. Sam Shipley, a freshman star two years ago, will run the 220-yard dash in the medley relay as will Akin, the races being composed of two 220-yard dashes, the quarter- and half mile runs.

Training in inclement weather on a track which the winter has left in the very worst condition, the team has been working under difficulties and will not be in good shape for the meet Saturday night. However, Coach Shively has three weeks to get the tracksters in good form for the next meet which will be at Champaign, Ill., March 17. Kentucky is sending a relay team to the great Indoor Relays at the University of Illinois where some of the best collegiate track men in the country will participate.

VARSITY BASEBALL CALL IS ISSUED THIS WEEK

Coach Fred Major has issued the first call for candidates for the varsity baseball team this season. According to the coach, the initial meeting will be held in the Men's gymnasium at 4 o'clock today. All candidates for the nine this season must be present.

The situation in baseball this year seems fairly bright. About seven regulars will be back, and a number of stars on the frosh team of last season will be out to fill up the gaps in the line of letter-men. Chief among the old men returning are Captain Bill Crouch, first baseman par excellence; Charlie Wert and McGary, pitchers, and former captain Edward "Swede" Ericson, catcher. Then there will be Gibb, Franceway, Cole, Rumberger, and others of last year's squad.

Coach Major will endeavor to get the practice session started at least by Saturday, according to the weather conditions. Some familiar names appear on Kentucky's card of games this spring. The program as arranged by the athletic department, is as follows:

April 2-3, Georgetown (There).
April 4-5, Oglethorpe (There).
April 6-7, Tennessee (There).
April 9, Illinois (Here).
April 14, Notre Dame (Here); tentative.
April 21, Open.
April 24, Minnesota (Here).
April 27-28, Vanderbilt (Here).
May 5, Open.
May 12, Open.
May 14-15, Oglethorpe (Here).

Commerce Fraternity Installed at University

Ceremonies Take Place at Home of Professor Weist; President McVey Speaks

Beta Gamma Sigma, national honorary scholastic commerce fraternity, was installed Saturday, February 18, at Dean Edward Wiest's home on Fontaine road. The installation was followed by a banquet at Chimney Corner.

It is the intention of the commerce college to make this fraternity rank with Phi Beta Kappa in the College of Arts and Sciences. Only outstanding students, alumni and faculty members are accepted.

The three groups accepted Saturday were as follows: Seniors, Philip Glenn, LeRoy Miles and Glenn Roberts; alumni, Robert G. Houseman, Wilburn B. Walker, David R. Hickey, Burton F. Hensley and Ishmael Planck; faculty members, Dean Edward Weist, Professor Robson Duncan McIntyre and Professor Walter Jennings.

Ben R. Shaver, of Louisville, was taken into the group as an honorary member. Mr. Shaver had one of the highest standings of any student ever to graduate from the College of Commerce. He was in a number of student activities while in the University, a member of Alpha Gamma Epsilon social fraternity, and is now in business in Louisville.

Dr. Frank L. McVey was the principal speaker at the banquet, and his topic was "Business Research." Professor J. W. Jenkins, of the University of Georgia, who came here for the installation of the local chapter, gave a talk on the aims and purposes of Beta Gamma Sigma.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSION

By Richard Roberts

(Minister of Shelbourne United Church, Toronto).

The final test of our Christianity is the character of our personal relationships. Saint Paul, you remember, had to deal with this question at Corinth. There was a riot in Corinth of what were called "gifts." Saint Paul had to plead for some sort of proportion, for some discrimination between the passing eccentricities of the spiritual life and the normal business of Christian living. What these gifts were does not seem quite clear, though we think we have seen in times of religious revival things that have a family likeness to them.

But there were some people then—there are people still—who supposed these abnormal outbursts were the real notes of Christianity. And Saint Paul had to put them right. You remember what he did: he sang to them that great psalm of love. "No," he says, "not gifts, not prophecies, not tongues, not holyrolling, not the jump-to-glory-Jane business is Christianity; but simply people loving one another."

Those of you who have had experience of religious revivalism know that this displacement of values is never very far from us. You no doubt may be familiar with these outward and visible signs of revivalism—the crowd, the publicity, the fever, the tense emotion. I say no more about them than that they are there. But when the shouting and the tumult have died, what then? I expect that the kind of question Saint Paul would have asked would have been: "But do folks love each other a little better than they did? Souls have been saved, you say. That is good, but tell me how much less pride, how much less vanity, how much less envy, how much less malice, how much more courtesy, how much more brotherhood, how much more sympathy, is there among the people? How much simple, unaffected love came out of the whole business?"

That is the real test, not only of your revival, but of your very Christianity. Not excitement, not fever, not mobs, not crowds, but the brotherhood, the fellowship, the sympathy that are created. The real end of our preaching and teaching is a world in which men are as Saint Paul said, kind to one another, tenderhearted, forbearing one another, forgiving one another, as God in Christ has forgiven all of us.

It was the profound insight of religious genius that led the early followers of George Fox to call themselves "a Society of Friends." That is what the church was meant to be. That is what the apostolic church was, a society of friends, and this same church, this same society of friends, exists in the world today, and you and I are in it for the specific purpose of extending its frontiers so that the whole wide earth shall become a society of friends.

It has been beautifully and nobly said that democracy is not a political doctrine so much as a way of living together. So it may be said of Christianity that it is in effect a way of living together, the way of friendship. The business of Christian missions is not so much to get people to call themselves Christians, not to make "Christians" in that sense at all, but to make friends. It does not matter very much whether the people of India and of China ever call themselves Christians if they are brought into the friendship that is in Jesus Christ.

"Walking to the game?"
"Practically."
"What do you mean, 'practically'?"
"I'm going in an antique Ford."

THE I'S HAVE IT Shakespeare Was Right

It's plain human nature to judge by appearances, and most of us are human. Let's take you for instance, aren't you apt to cast your vote for the fellow who looks like a winner? Certainly. It can't be denied, fresh cleaned, well groomed clothes do help a man win—Every Man, YOU INCLUDED. That is why REGULAR DRY CLEANING IS GETTING TO BE A HABIT.

W. A. A. MEMBERS GO TO CINCINNATI

Fifteen Girls From University Participate In Play Day Program by Women Students of University of Cincinnati.

Fifteen members of the University W. A. A. went to Cincinnati Saturday where they participated in a Play Day program arranged by women students of the University of Cincinnati, University of Kentucky, University of Indiana, Depauw University, Ohio State University, Oxford College for Women, Ohio Wesleyan, Miami, Western Reserve, Oberlin, and Purdue.

After registration and assembly in the women's gymnasium the day's program began with the election of team captains. Members from each college were equally distributed into eight groups under the name of colors, each group having a leader. The day's order consisted of activities, including basketball, cage ball, relays, folk dancing swimming; of novelties, such as stunts, accuracy throw of baseball, distance throw of basketball, dashes, etc. The challenge system was used for novelties. Any girl could challenge any member of another color team to any form of individual competition. The scoring system was as follows: Five points for winner of team, one point for individual winner of challenge, an award for the individual with the best posture. Mary Virginia Hailey was the only member from U. K. who was on a winning team.

The program of Play Day closed with a formal dinner at 6 o'clock. Each member was presented with a miniature "Bearcat," the symbol of the University of Cincinnati. Before leaving each represented school sang its own song.

Play Day is the result of efforts of the Women's division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation in this field, which has been organized to study how women may derive benefit of competitive team play without their games becoming commercialized.

The following girls represented the University of Kentucky in this year's Play Day: Virginia Robinson, president of the Women's Athletic Association; members of the council, Mary V. Haily, Margaret Sims, Louetta Greeno, Natalie Hickey, Virginia Ebert, Ann Pansock; others who went were representatives of sororities and those who have shown special interest in athletics, Alice Whittinghill, Laura K. Johnson, Vernus Waterstratt, Vivian Smith.

Dean T. P. Cooper Talks on Employment

Discusses Qualities Sought by Employers Before Assembly of Senior Agriculturists

"What an Employer Looks for in Selecting Employees" was the topic upon which Thomas P. Cooper, Dean of the College of Agriculture, talked to the members of the Senior Assembly which was held at the second hour Saturday in the Agricultural building. This was the first meeting of the semester and was attended by some fifty seniors.

In his talk Dean Cooper pointed out the following qualities as those sought by all organizations in employing their help: 1, ability; 2, knowledge; 3, courage; 4, persistence; 5, reliability; 6, initiative or aggressiveness; 7, personality; 8, health; 9, character; 10, industry. Dean Cooper also advised the students to anticipate where they would be at 50 rather than meditate on their position in life at 25. "You must learn that when you have finished college, you are not educated," he told the group. The next meeting will be held in two weeks and will take the form of a supper instead of the usual assembly.

SATAN VISITS FRATERNITY HOUSES FOR 'HELL WEEK'

the realms of darkness told his master.

"You ought to visit Dick Stoll or Jim Johnson at the University. They were the first fellows initiated into fraternities on this campus. Those were the days! Initiations were held in a real cave on the Russell Cave pike. On the way out there, fraternity men, if they happened to find a stray horse on the roadside they did not scruple to mount their candidate on its back. Of course they never told the candidate that it was a horse! Sometimes they would tie a rope around a pledge and hang him over a cliff by the cave.

"These modern fraternities have a practice of making their pledges drink raw eggs. In the old days, we used to fill an egg with water and a blindfolded initiate. We asked him to guess whether it was good or bad and then broke it over his head to prove that it was one or the other. Carbon disulphide smells exactly like rotten eggs, so the boys enjoyed it immensely.

"Oh yes, we used to send a pledge down on Main street, dressed in a straw hat and overalls, to fish in a bucket with a fishing pole and bait. Or perhaps we'd give him an easel and tell him to stand on a street corner and sketch. If he dared to talk—well, he wouldn't sit down for days afterwards. At first the police thought some one had escaped from a lunatic asylum, since the boys wouldn't answer any questions. But they soon grew to expect such behavior at certain times of the year and shrugged their shoulders at "those crazy college boys."

"Ah, said the Devil, regretfully taking leave of a group of boys searching the streets for canary birds at one o'clock in the morning. "This is much to my satisfaction. It really is my kingdom on earth. Henceforth fraternity and sorority initiations shall be known as my week—my own "Hell Week."

And so it is.

Football in the 17th Century was known by the various names of hurling, camp ball, and camping.

Local Chapter of Delta Tau Delta Wins Honor Plaque

For the third consecutive time, Delta Epsilon chapter of Delta Tau Delta, has won the scholarship plaque presented by the Arch chapter of the national fraternity at New York. Delta Epsilon chapter has maintained the highest scholastic standing of any chapter in the Southern Conference of the fraternity for three years and is entitled to keep the plaque permanently.

The formal presentation of the plaque was made at the Southern Conference at Chapel Hill, North Carolina last week, and was received by Roy Eversole, treasurer of the chapter here.

WHY SO MANY SMOKERS HAVE CHANGED TO CHESTERFIELD..

WE STATE it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality
and hence of better
taste than in any other cigarette at the price.

You Need Pay No More—You
Need Never Buy Another Pen

Parker Duofold writes
more easily because of Pressureless Touch.
The light weight of the pen itself starts and keeps it writing. No effort, no fatigue. There is Jeweler's Precision
in its making, so it stays accurate if you use good ink and keep it clean.

Non-Breakable

Then Parker Per-manite Barrels (28%
lighter and 100 times
stronger than the rubber formerly used) make the Duofold Non-Break-
able. Thus Duofold features are protected against damage.

Six graduated points,
three sizes of barrels,
five flashing colors, give man or woman wide
selection to suit hand
and taste.

Look for "Geo. S. Parker—Duofold" on each
pen (pencils to match)
to be sure of the genuine.
